

June 11, 2009

Dear friends and families of the Baldwin School community,

As the start of the new school year 2009-2010 draws near, we hope all of you are having a fun and restorative summer break! I wish to take this opportunity to say that as your new Head of School it is truly a privilege to have been given an opportunity to work with this talented faculty and student-body who are committed to academic rigor in a nurturing environment. My family and I are counting the days until we can arrive to Puerto Rico and begin our tenure at Baldwin School. We plan to arrive on June 18th and hope that we will get to meet with as many people in the community as is possible, before classes begin and through out the school year.

During my previous visits to the school, it was immediately evident that the community is full of thoughtful and engaged learners who will never sacrifice their compassion for or service to others in their own personal self-development. This confluence of maintaining highest standards in both academics and service-leadership makes me particularly proud of Baldwin School and its mission.

While Sebi, Bridget and I are enjoying a few days off before our trip, I can tell you that we, the Cauz family, can barely contain our enthusiasm for our new start at Baldwin School. Rest assured that we will do everything in our power to maintain, and even improve, the school's wonderful sense of community and its commitment to be the leader in independent school education here in Puerto Rico and beyond.

Sincerely,

Albert R. Cauz
Head of School
